I EAT REALLY WELL, SO WHY ISN'T IT SHIFTING?

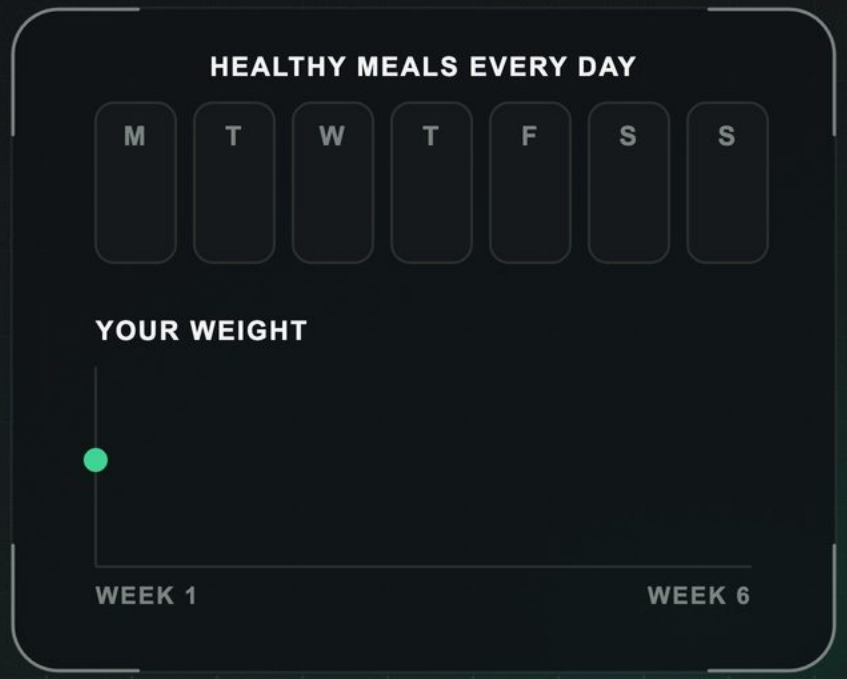

KNOWING WHAT'S ACTUALLY ON YOUR PLATE

SOUND FAMILIAR?

YOU'RE DOING EVERYTHING RIGHT

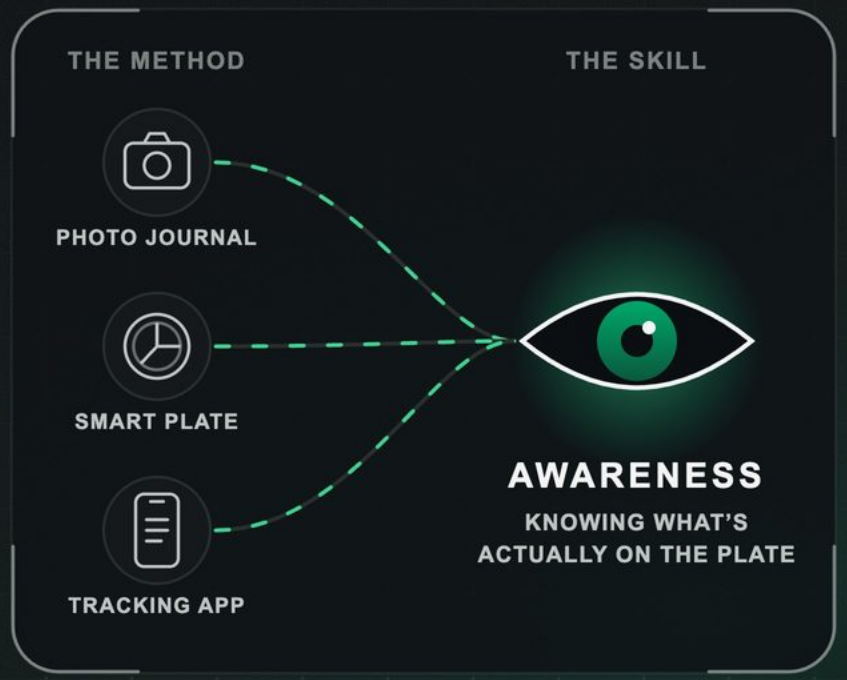

- You cook from scratch most nights
- Salads at lunch, no takeaways, no crisps in the cupboard
- The scale hasn't budged in weeks
- Healthy food still has calories

THE MAIN POINT

IT DOESN'T MATTER HOW YOU TRACK IT

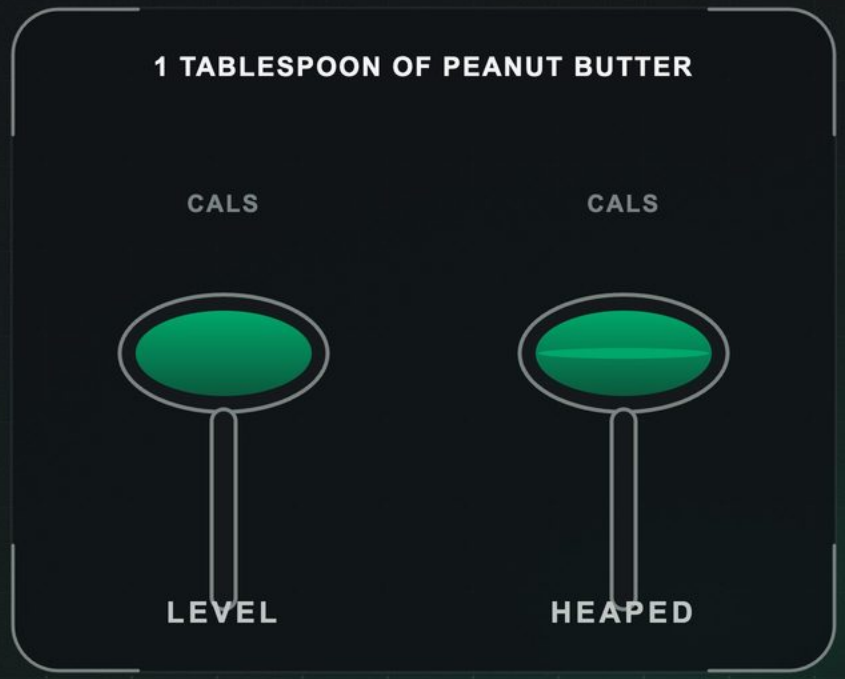

- Photo journal, Smart Plate or a tracking app. All 3 work
- I've had clients get brilliant results with every single one
- None of them work if you don't know what's actually on the plate
- The method is the tool. Awareness is the skill

THE HALO FOODS

HEALTHY DOESN'T MEAN LIGHT

- Avocado, nuts, granola, olive oil, peanut butter, smoothies
- Nothing wrong with any of them
- They're easy to overdo because nobody thinks to watch them
- A level spoon and a heaped spoon are 2 very different things

THE INVISIBLE CALORIES

WHERE IT HIDES

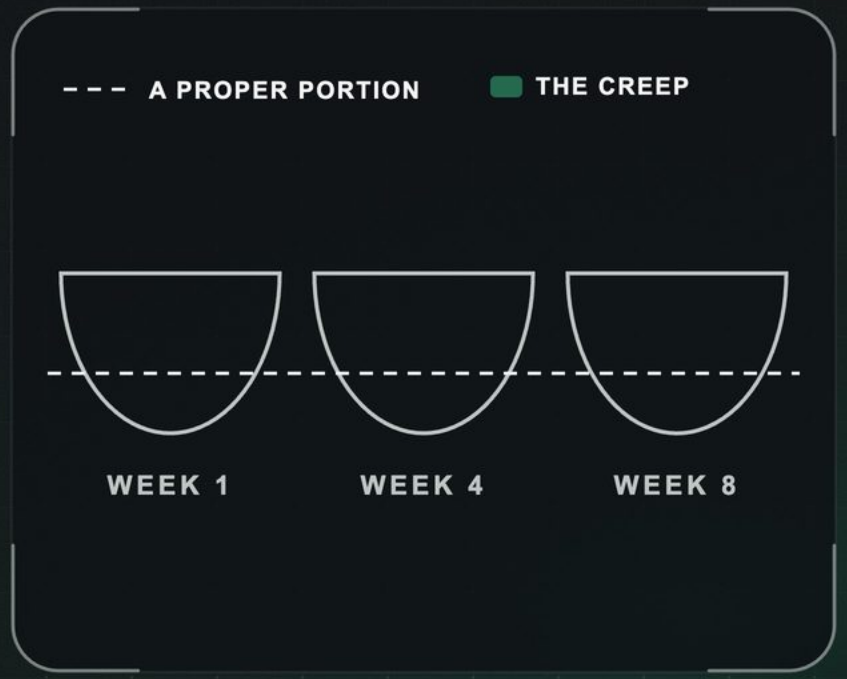

- The oil in the pan and the milk in 4 coffees
- Picking while you cook and the kids' leftovers
- "Just a handful" and the biscuit with the brew
- Friday to Sunday, when the logging quietly stops

EYEBALLING

YOUR PORTIONS HAVE GROWN

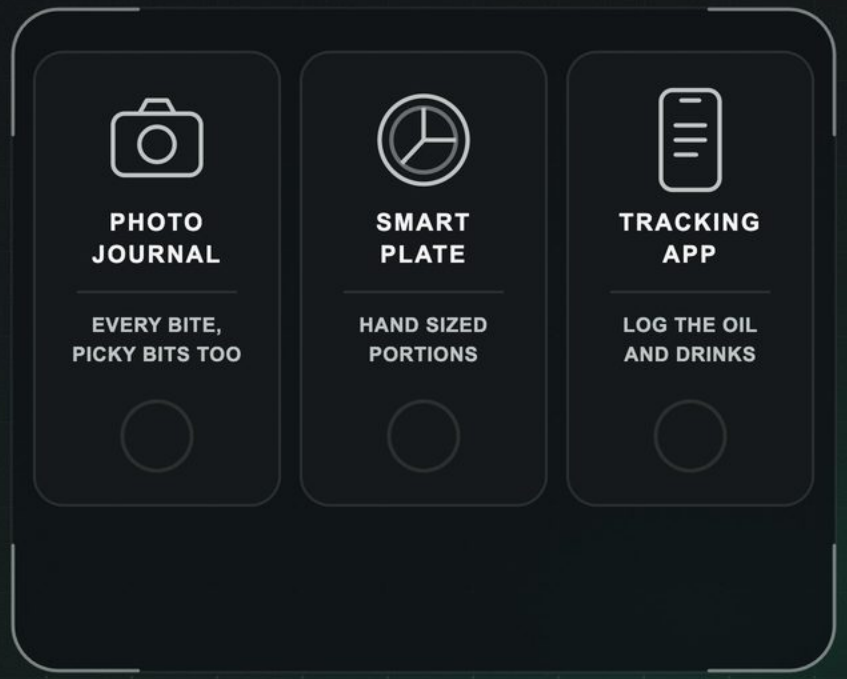

- Eyeballing gets more generous over time without you noticing
- The cereal pour, the pasta, the glass of wine
- Weigh your usual portion once. Just once
- Most people get a proper shock

WHATEVER YOU USE

MAKE YOUR METHOD HONEST

- Photo journal: every bite gets a photo, the picky bits included
- Smart Plate: half veg, a palm of protein, a fist of carbs, a thumb of fats
- Tracking app: log the oil and the drinks, pre log the night before
- Weekends get logged exactly the same as Mondays

IMPORTANT

THIS ISN’T ABOUT EATING LESS FOOD

- Nobody’s skipping meals here
- Protein first at every meal
- Fill the plate up with veg
- More food on the plate, fewer calories in it

CHECK FIRST

BEFORE YOU BLAME THE PLAN

- Weight is a trend over weeks, not one weigh in
- Give it 2 to 3 weeks of honest data first
- Look at measurements, photos and how your clothes fit
- Then ask which bits have quietly stopped happening

THIS WEEK

THE PORTION AUDIT

- 3 days this week, with at least 1 weekend day
- Weigh or check your 3 most eaten foods against a proper portion
- Write down every little bit that didn't get recorded
- Pick one thing to tighten up next week
