ZENITH FIT GUIDE

THE MOMENT BEFORE

For the nights you're stood at the cupboard and you already know how this ends.

Save this to your phone. Read it when you need it.

WHAT'S ACTUALLY GOING ON

It's 9pm. You've had a long day. You're tired, you're fed up, and before you've even thought about it you're in the kitchen.

That feeling is real. Nobody's saying it isn't.

The biscuits after it are a habit. Something you've done so many times your brain does it on autopilot now.

And habits can be changed. That's the good news.

Feeling stuff is part of life. What we're building is a gap between the feeling and what you do next.

That's all this guide is.

THE 10 MINUTE PAUSE

1. Pour yourself a glass of water.
2. Walk out of the kitchen.
3. Set a 10 minute timer on your phone.

Most of the time the urge has gone by the time the timer goes off. Trust me.

If you still want it after 10 minutes, have it. Properly. On a plate, sat down, logged in the app.

That's a decision you've made. Standing at the cupboard eating out of the packet is autopilot. Big difference.

NAME IT

Ask yourself one question. What am I actually feeling right now?

TIRED

Food won't fix this one. Bed will. Get up there 30 minutes earlier tonight.

STRESSED

Get outside for 10 minutes. Walk round the block with your phone in your pocket.

BORED

Do something with your hands. Tidy one drawer, run a bath, ring someone.

"WHAT'S THE POINT"

Open your progress photos from week 1. That's the point.

RESENTFUL

Everyone else is having a takeaway and you want one too. Plan one in for the weekend, log it, and really enjoy it.

IF YOU EAT IT ANYWAY

Don't panic. One evening doesn't undo weeks of work.

What undoes it is what comes next.

No skipping breakfast to make up for it.

No extra session to burn it off.

No "I'll start again Monday."

Never miss twice. Your next meal goes back on plan, and we carry on.

Then ask yourself what you were feeling just before. Write it down. That's how we make next time easier.

MY PLAN

Fill this in now, while you're calm. Future you will thank you for it.

My biggest trigger is

It usually hits around

When it does, I'm going to
